Autumn Peltier on Water and Environment

Written by: Kerry Assiniwe, Communications & Media, Naandwechige-Gamig Wikwemikong Health Centre

I kind of thought that one day she won't be able to do this work and she's barely able to do this work right now because she has Parkinson's disease and she can't walk. She did her last water walk last year. So I just told myself, I have to take on this role."

It's a role that has seen Autumn advocate not only locally and provincially, but also on the national and international stage. She is well respected among Indigenous communities and leaders across Canada. She has even been asked to speak before Chiefs and leadership of the National Assembly of First Nations. She also received the Sovereign's Medal for Volunteers, a national award in recognition for her contributions to her community, this past January, at the Office of the Lieutenant Governor of Ontario.

On the international front, among the more recent highlights, Autumn was nominated, as the only Canadian, for the 2017 International Children's Peace Prize. And, she was invited to speak at the United Nations General Assembly in New York for the declaration of the 'International Decade for Action on Water for Sustainable Development'.

Her world travels and advocacy have been experiences not too many people her age can say they've had nor ever will. She says she has learned a lot about people, their beliefs and even some 'politics' around water and the environment. She adds there's a lot to take in, but she always has a special someone there to help her – her mom – Stephanie.

"When I really don't understand something, my mom will try her best to explain it to me - like when it has to do with politics or their decisions."

As noted, Autumn has done and continues to do a lot of travelling for speaking engagements. She admits it can be very difficult to accommodate all of the requests.

"The travelling part is hard because I don't like missing school. And my mom, sometimes, has 150 requests in the mailbox for me to go places. But I told her we can't always be going places because I have to go to school so I ask her to try to keep it to one."

Although the advocacy on water and the environment does prove highly educational for Autumn, she still maintains her school work while in travels.

"I do miss quite a bit of school but they (school) send me with work when I go - the work that I would miss so that I don't miss it. But sometimes I don't get it so I have to take some time to catch up."

And 'catching up' is also something this young lady looks forward to when it comes to her friends back here at home. When her travels are done and she comes back home, she looks forward to spending time with friends – whether for leisure purposes of 'just hanging out' or during 'close to home' water initiatives.

"My friends do join me sometimes. They come water walking with me and they come to ceremonies with me."

Autumn turns 13 years old in September and with that she will be entering a new phase in her life – secondary school. She is quite excited about that and her plans from secondary school and beyond will see a stronger platform for her to grow into a more solid and influential young leader and role model.

"Once I graduate from high school, I'm going to university to study political science and then to law school and then, become a politician. And in all this, I will keep my water efforts going."

And those efforts...whether local, provincial, national and international...will always carry the same powerful message,

"One day we won't be able to have drinking water and one day our water will cost more than an ounce of gold. It is so important that we protect our water. Anyone can do this."

Autumn Peltier has lived the past four years of her life keeping the waves of awareness, respect and action on the protection of our sacred 'Nibi' (water) ... flowing. From the grass roots of her community, Wiikwemkoong Unceded Territory, Manitioulin Island, ON., to the international stage of the United Nations, this young role model is on a powerful journey.

When Autumn was 8 years old, she entered a writing contest and the subject she chose was 'water'; the inspiration on this subject stemming from her Auntie Josephine Mandamin – a 'water walker' who has walked over an estimated 25,000kms within North America. She walks to raise awareness and advocacy about the sacredness of water and the responsibility that women have for taking care of it. In Anishinaabe culture, Mother Earth, just like women, are carriers of water – giving life.

"What my auntie Josephine always taught me is that it's our responsibility as Anishinaabe-Kwe to care for our water because we are water carriers. When she told me that,

Sladen Peltier Stars in 'Indian Horse' – Raising Awareness of Indian Residential Schools

Written by: Kerry Assiniwe, Communications & Media, Naandwechige-Gamig Wiikwemikong Health Centre

Lights, camera, action!

It's a phrase well-known to 11-year old Sladen Peltier from Wiikwemkoong Unceded Territory, Manitoulin Island, ON. Sladen plays the role of the '6 year old Saul' in the powerful movie 'Indian Horse', released this past April, which brings to the forefront the traumatic realities of Canada's Indian Residential School system.

Based on a novel by author Richard Wagamese, the story follows the life of Canadian First Nations boy, Saul Indian Horse, as he survives residential school and life amongst the racism of the 1970s. A talented hockey player, Saul must find his own path as he battles stereotypes and alcoholism.

Sladen recalls how he first found out about the audition for the role.

"I just found a flyer at Little Native Hockey League (Little NHL) that was sitting on a table and I threw it in my hockey bag. After going home [to Ottawa], a few weeks later I was cleaning out my hockey bag and found the flyer and thought it would be cool to try and audition for the movie. My mom reached out to the contact person on the flyer and asked if it was too late to audition. We were told that there was a very small window of time. So they sent a script, and I had to read the lines out on camera to send it to them. This was the first audition that I did for the role."

That started in April 2016, he got the call for the part in August 2016, filming took place October-December 2016.

This whole process was a first ever amazing opportunity and experience for Sladen – but also one, he says, had its share of challenges such as 'acting out emotions' like crying or being angry. He also points out a particularly powerful sacrifice by 'choice' he made for the movie.

"The scene in the film where my hair was cut – was real. That wasn't a wig. I had been growing my hair since my Papa (Nixon Peltier) passed away and it meant a lot to me – but I made the decision to cut my hair so that people would learn what happened to our people."

And its 'our people' he speaks of that have been deeply impacted by the movie – people who have all been affected by the residential school system in some way or another.

"When I hear the reaction from Indigenous people, I am honoured they came to see the film. I have had survivors come up to me and say that they hadn't cried before – and they finally were able to. There are no words that I have for that – I hope they are able to heal one day." He adds, "I also want to say to them it is ok to talk about it, we are here to listen and it is ok to let out tears - it is a form of healing."

Sladen also recognizes the impact the movie has had with 'non-Indigenous' people.

"This is a big thing – this story is reaching lots of people that didn't know the story before. I am very happy that this is going on and people are talking about residential schools."

So what now for this amazing young actor? He still wants to 'act' and continues to audition for other roles in other productions. Coming from a world of hockey, Sladen is so grateful that he took a chance in acting – something he had never done before until this opportunity came up. And with that, he has a strong message for all youth;

"If you want to do something, keep trying even if you don't get it the first time. Don't give up or don't be scared to try something new just because you haven't done it before. If you want it, go for it and don't give up."

And lastly...he shares a message for his community – Wiikwemkoong;

"Chi-Miigwetch to my family and the entire community of Wiikwemikoong for your love and support. It means a lot to me!"

DEBAJEHMUJIG THEATRE GROUP

Manitowaning, Ontario

Phone Number(s): (705) 859-2317?
Website(s): www.debaj.ca

Since its inception in 1984, Debajehmujig has aimed to provide a community based platform and showcase for the development of Anishnabek artists of all disciplines. Moving into a donated General and Grocery Store in 2007 that we all knew as "Mastins", the space was rebuilt to accommodate a variety of creation platforms. Today the Creation Centre houses a 2520 Sq. ft, 70' X 36' Black Box Studio with overhead video and audio control booth, an audio production /edit / recording studio, animation and media creation lab, video editing suite lab, professional printing suite, green room, and full kitchen. Our animators are fully trained and work year round in and out of our building, often in schools, writing and performing productions. The Global Savages have visited many parts of Europe on tour and have left our mark as a strong cultured and vibrant community, proud and progressive, just as our title proceeds to read us as.

Our music department has grown immensely and we plan to launch a Festival to rival the Three Fires Music Festival of the 1990's. Labour Day Weekend, Friday, August 31st and September 1st, in its inaugural year, the Wiikwemkoong Art's and Music Festival aims to bring back the essence of expressive creation that our community has long showed avid participation and professional interests in. Hosted by Debajehmujig and Wikwemikong Tourism, Thunderbird Park will showcase headliners in Polaris Prize winner and Juno Award winner, throat singer extraordinaire and accomplished visual artist, as well as published novelist, Tanya Tagaq. Before Ms. Tagaq completes our Saturday night, local legend and Nashville recording artist and Juno award winner Crystal Shawanda will grace us with her explosive blues rhythms and heartfelt ballads. Ms Shawanda, the former Sony Arista Nashville label artist, has made great headways as a spokes person for Indigenous Women and success through amazing odds. Growing up in Wiikwemkoong and making it into Nashville was opportune by her father's truck route through the city, a little bit of luck and a lifelong ethic of hard work. We are proud of Crystal and share appreciation for what she continues to give back to the community, always sporting her down to earth attitude and energetic and colourful aura with all who meet her!

Check www.debaj.ca often and find us on Facebook for updates on the Festival and other exciting events!

The Wikwemikong Development Commission (WDC) is a non-profit corporation that is incorporated without share capital under the laws of Ontario and is managed by an elected Board of Directors. Board members are elected by the on-reserve membership at the Annual General Assembly. In 2009 WDC received its Anishinaabe Nooswin, Enaadmaagehjik, meaning "People Helping People."

As the economic development branch of the Wiikwemkoong Unceded Territory, the WDC is mandated to develop the natural and human resources of the Territory thereby enhancing the socio-economic conditions and quality of life for all Wiikwemkoong Band members. WDC strives to meet its mandate through its various organizational branches, including Wii Ni N'guch-tood Labour Market Services, which implements training programs to meet band members' employment and training needs; Your Dollar Store with More; Rainbow Ridge Golf Course; FirstTel; Wikwemikong Tourism; and Energy Planning.

One of the newest WDC initiatives is the Wiikwemkoong Foodshare Program which was created for the community to promote food sovereignty through various workshops. The program will include the creation of a village and rural community garden as well as raised garden beds. The distribution of food grown will follow a one-third share model: 1/3 to the landowner, 1/3 to volunteers, and 1/3 to community organizations/events.

Please feel free to contact our office directly if you would like further information on any of the above programs/services.

Wiikwemkoong 58th Annual Cultural Festival

THUNDERBIRD PARK, WIKWEMIKONG ONTARIO
AUGUST 4, 5, 6 2018

Photo and Article Provided by the Wikwemikong Heritage Organization

There is a lot to be said about the history of Wikwemikong Powwow. If you're new to the annual festival here, the event had begun in 1961 by a group of women from the community who had travelled west and had brought these dances back to teach what they had seen to the people at home. Back when it was on centre stage in the old arena and not a powwow arbor like we know today.

Since its start and by continuing this grand homecoming event year after year we celebrate through dance, song, food and community hospitality during a 3 day festival and pow-wow held during every Civic Holiday weekend in August.

This year the Wiikwemkoong 58th Annual Cultural Festival is on August 4th, 5th, and 6th 2018 at Thunderbird Park in Wikwemikong, Ontario on Manitoulin Island. The event includes Champion Dancing and Singing, Interactive Cultural Workshops, Arts, Authentic Shopping, delicious Cuisine and the crowning of our pow-wow's Miss Wiikwemkoong.

This year's head staff are MC's Ruben Littlehead and Chris Pheasant, Head Veteran Walker Stonefish, Arena Director David Trudeau, Head Drum Judges High Eagle Singers, Head Female Judge Alanna Trudeau, Head Male Judge Jesse Osawamick. Our annual committee specials are ages 18 and up including a Woodland Special, Men's Fancy Iron, Women's Fancy Iron, Men's /Women's Smoke Dance Special.

This event draws crowds locally, nationally and internationally throughout 3 days to Manitoulin Island, in peak tourism season throughout the spring and summer.

Access to Manitoulin Island is located on Highway 6. If you are crossing the iconic Little Current Swing Bridge traveling from Highway 17, follow signs for Manitoulin Island and South Bay Mouth Highway 6 South. From the popular Chi-Cheemaun Ferry from Tobermory to South Bay Mouth, drive North on Highway 6 and follow signs for Wikwemikong.

The Anishnaabek people of Wikwemkoong are citizens of the Three Fires Confederacy: an alliance of the ODAWA, OJIBWAY AND POTTAWATOMI nations. The languages of the Three Fires have similar dialects, which have proved very important with regard to language retention and preservation.

The core of culture is language. In 2006, the citizens of Wikwemkoong formally recognized this principle by implementing a community-based Anishnaabemowin Language Strategy to retain our language for all future generations.

The Odawa inhabited Manitoulin Island or "Mnidoo Mnis" for many years prior to any others tribal settlements, it has been referred to as "Odawa Mnis". Manitoulin Island has also been called "Ogemah Mnis", the home of the ancestors as recorded by many chiefs having been buried here.

The Ojibway arrived in Wikwemkoong during the 1850s era treaties. These families continue to reside and contribute to the community.

In 1832, three Pottawatomi families were already settled in Wikwemkoong. With the ratification of the 1833 Treaty of Chicago in 1835, U.S. government agents forced the Pottawatomi and neighbouring tribes to sell their land. More than 3,000 Anishinaabek consequently left their homelands. Pottawatomi families began to arrive in Canada around this time. Concurrently in 1836, the main objective of the Bond Head Treaty was to initiate the migration of Upper Canada Indians to Manitoulin Island where they could live free from the influences of the encroaching white civilization.

The Upper Canada Indians did not migrate to Manitoulin Island as intended. Therefore, in 1862, the McDougall Treaty was initiated and signed. This treaty targeted the surrender of unsold lands on Manitoulin Island. Wikwemkoong did not sign the treaty and thus it became known as an UNCEDED INDIAN RESERVE. In 1968, an amalgamation took place among three bands: Manitoulin Island Indian Reserve, Point Grondine and South Bay. This amalgamation created the Wikwemikong Unceded Indian Reserve (later known as Wikwemkoong Unceded Territory).

In 2006 the Department of Canadian Heritage designated Wikwemkoong one of several Cultural Capitals of Canada.

The people of Wikwemkoong take great pride in the living history, culture and language of their community and in the diverse traditional arts that are present. We encourage guests to discover Wikwemkoong with an enthusiasm for learning more about our history and lifestyles of past, present and future.

Wiikwemkoong Foodshare Program has been created for the community to promote food sovereignty. Debbie Mishibinijima, a Horticulture Technician graduate, is the Coordinator. There have been two community gardens created on Mshaaboos Lane and Kaboni Road. The success of the community gardens are dependent on the helpfulness of volunteers to reap the rewards of the harvest. The distribution of food grown follows a one-third share model – 1/3 to the landowner, 1/3 to volunteers, and 1/3 to community organizations/events. There will be several gardening and canning/preserving workshops throughout the spring and summer months. There will also be 'value added' apple initiatives, including apple cider demonstrations.

Please check for community postings and Wiikwemkoong Foodshare page for all the latest updates. Our schedules are subject to change dependent on weather and meeting commitments.

Point Grondine Park

The mission of Wikwemikong Tourism is to develop market-ready products and services that support the growth of the local tourism industry. We achieve this by offering tourism products and services in both Wiikwemkoong and Point Grondine Park. We offer authentic Indigenous experiences, in which we are able to tell “our story, through our lens.” Full details of the tours we offer can be found in our annual Experiences Guidebook as well as on our webpage. We work collaboratively with partner stakeholders to deliver premier events, such as the Annual Cultural Fair and the Annual Ice Fishing Derby, which aim to increase long term visitation and non-resident participation.

We also work with local artists, both emerging and established, to create opportunities for them to further themselves as artists through grant funding opportunities and consignment of their art in our galleries. Art consignment provides a way to meet tourist demand for local authentic Indigenous art.

We are also leaders in trail development working with communities to plan, design, and build recreational trails, for the benefit of increasing recreational, health and/or economic opportunities in their communities. An example of the types of trails we develop is our very own Bebamikawe Memorial Trail.

Wikwemikong Tourism is happy to share that the MS

Chi-Cheemaun is hosting Authentic Indigenous Experiences every Wednesday beginning June 27 through to August 29. If you are on the afternoon sailings between South Baymouth and Tobermory (1:30pm/3:40pm) you will have an opportunity to experience one of three Wikwemikong Tourism experiences: Dewegan-Drum & Song, Unceded Journey, or The Seven Grandfather's Painting Experience. Each of our experiences are presented by Wiikwemkoong members. You are invited to join in on these cultural experiences and we encourage you to spread the word to visiting family and friends.

Please like and follow our Facebook Pages: Wikwemikong Tourism (and) Point Grondine Park to stay up to date on our latest events as they become available.
